Testing validates code and data; it captures neither